

Deadline: 2016-11-15

Position: assistant professors in economics

Description:

The Department of Economics at Sciences Po invites applications for 2 junior positions (assistant professor, tenure-track) in economics, starting September 1, 2017. Candidates are offered a competitive salary package and a light teaching load (two 24-hour courses the first 3 years and then three 24-hour courses per year) and light administrative duties (40 hours the first 3 years and 56h thereafter, such as screening student applications, master thesis supervision or oral examinations).

Applications from candidates from any country and background are welcome.

English is the Department's working language (for teaching as well) and knowledge of French is not required. Interviews will be conducted at the ASSA meetings in Chicago in January 2017.

Application Instructions:

Candidates should have a Ph.D. in hand or firmly expected by August 2017 and should show promise or significant scholarship and teaching ability. A completed application will include a cover letter, a CV, a copy of important publications or working papers, evidence of teaching performance, and should arrange for three letters of recommendation to be submitted online. Complete applications must be received by November 15th 2016 to be guaranteed full consideration. We recommend the use of the online application of EconJobMarket.org.
